TALLGRASS AWARDED CONTRACT TO EXPAND OSAGE CASINO IN TULSA

Tallgrass Technology Services and Tallgrass Construction Services, part of the family of businesses owned by the Osage Nation, will install the audio/visual equipment and the fire suppression system for the new facilities at the Osage Casino in Tulsa.

“We are excited to work on such a visible project in northeastern Oklahoma that serves so many customers throughout a multi-state region,” said Executive General Manager Jim Holder. “The Osage Casinos are known for providing customers with a great product and we are pleased to be part of making that experience even better.”

According to the casino, these renovations are part of a broader plan to offer a more exciting experience for guests. The renovations include 400,000 square feet of new property with casino amenities including 16 table games, 5 poker tables, 1,500 electronic games, a sport bar and grill, café, a full-service brew pub and 126-room hotel tower.

The projects are expected to start later this year with a completion timeline late in 2018. Funding is estimated $831,000.00 and $283,000.00, respectively, and includes the purchasing, installation, and overseeing of the projects.
